

Open access licence

Using in Control materials

November 2007

Using in Control Materials – licence options

in Control owns the copyright to all its published materials but you are able to use these materials under certain conditions.

1. If you are someone who needs support you can use the materials free.
2. in Control also offers those people wanting to establish or promote Individual Budgets and Self-Directed Support the opportunity to use in Control materials. But you must comply with the conditions below.

As the publisher of this work, in Control encourages people who need support, their supporters, and those authorities wanting to establish a system of Self-Directed Support to access in Control content electronically:

- If you are an individual and you direct your own support, or if you're thinking about directing your support, you can use everything on the website free. The same goes for a person's supporters – for example, family members, friends, brokers, community members.
- If you represent a local authority and you want to use materials to set up a system of Self-Directed Support, you can only use them if your authority is a member of in Control. Information about membership is available from: admin@in-control.org.uk. Any use of the materials for the purposes of establishing a system of Self-Directed Support (or any aspect of it) if your authority is not a member of in Control will be considered as a breach of these copyright conditions.
- If you represent a consultancy or training organisation (or any organisation selling support services) to help statutory authorities or any independent organisation to set up a system of, or any aspect of, Self-Directed Support or Individual Budgets, you are only permitted to use in Control materials if you have a formal partnership agreement with in Control. For more details, contact: julie.casey@in-control.org.uk. Any use of the materials by an agency for the purposes of helping another organisation establish a system of Self-Directed Support (or any aspect of it) without a partnership with in Control, will be considered as a breach of these copyright conditions

Open access licence

Downloading and distributing materials

If you comply with the conditions above, you are welcome to download, save, or distribute materials - electronically or on paper - without written permission providing that:

- You credit in Control.
- You use this phrase to credit in Control: 'This guide/ or paper/ or document/ or presentation/ etc. was produced by in Control www.in-control.org.uk'.
- Any other phrases you use to credit in Control must make clear that in Control is the publisher of the material
- You feature the address of the in Control website: www.in-control.org.uk.
- The text is not altered.

Adapting materials

Local authorities, consultancy agencies and any organisation taking part in the establishment or promotion of a system of Self-Directed Support may not adapt, take extracts from, or change in any way whatsoever in Control materials without the written permission of in Control. Contact the Communications Director: carlpoll@in-control.org.uk. Copyright for illustrations within in Control materials is jointly held by in Control and know what i mean.

Scotland and Cymru

If you are in Scotland or Cymru and wish to use in Control's materials, the conditions set out in this document apply equally. Membership and partnership, as well as any adaptation of materials must be agreed with in Control Scotland: john.dalrymple@forliving.org; and in Control Cymru: enquiries.cymru@in-control.org.uk.

Open access licence

By downloading and/ or distributing in Control's published material, you are agreeing to these conditions.

For further information, please e-mail: admin@in-control.org.uk

November 2007